Eagle Project I built a prayer garden for my church, First Presbyterian Church of Port Kennedy. It was placed at the top of cemetery so it looks over all of the plots and provides a place of rest and a place of meditation and prayer. It is 8'x20', framed by landscape timbers and filled in with dirt to level the area, on top of that is about 3" of gravel. There are memorial bricks placed throughout the garden that were purchased by members of the congregation as well as church friends and former members. I placed three Japanese Holly bushes and two butterfly bushes in the garden along with two praying hands hostas and two crusader hostas and marigolds. There is also an angel statue that stands about 3' tall and two benches both were donated.
