Future Ambitions: I have recently committed the next five years of my life to something that is greater than me. After high school graduation, the U.S. Navy will be my home and my brethren until I am able to pass it on to a new sailor. I am setting out to do something that I believe in, such as freedom, democracy, honor, courage and commitment. It will not only test my mental and physical capabilities, but it will also test how badly I want to succeed.
