Eagle Project I created a Veteran's Memorial Garden around a flagpole near a historic schoolhouse. My helpers and I tilled the soil around the flagpole in a circle and planting native red, white, and blue flowers and bushes. We laid bricks around the circumference of the garden to prevent erosion, and also laid a brick sitting area facing the flagpole. We also installed a bench on the sitting area, and a plaque commemorating the veterans of the township. Three lights were installed to illuminate the flag at night, with an outdoor electrical socket and a photocell to power the lights. The existing garden near the front porch of the schoolhouse was weeded and mulched, and the drain area was cleaned. When the schoolhouse becomes a small museum, the garden will add to the historical aspect due to the native plants.
